CLASH OVER BIG SUFFRAGE PARADE

WASHINGTON, January 23.—Army women at Fort Myer were stirred up because Mrs. Joseph Garrard, wife of Colonel Garrard, commanding the fort, had advised Mrs. Burleson, wife of Lieutenant Richard C. Burleson, not to act as grand marshal of the great suffrage parade here on March 3, a position which has been tendered Mrs. Burleson, and which she had accepted. Mrs. Burleson will act as grand marshal, despite Mr. Garrard's advice.

Mrs. Garrard called up Mrs. Burleson on the telephone recently, it was said today, and advised her to give up the office of grand marshal of the parade. Mrs. Burleson later wrote to Mrs. Garrard and asked whether, as the wife of the post commandant or in a private capacity, Mrs. Garrard had made this suggestion. If the request came from the wife of the post commandant in official position, Mrs. Burleson said she would give up the marshaling; but if Mrs. Garrard was merely making the suggestion in a private capacity she felt at liberty to continue as marshal. Mrs. Garrard replied that it was not as the wife of the commandant that she made the suggestion, but merely as a woman who had had longer experience in the army. It was denied today that "there is any ill-feeling over the matter, or that Mrs. Burleson is being socially disciplined at the post."

WASHINGTON, January 24.—The National Woman's Suffrage Association, as such, will take no part in the

THE USEFUL NEWSPAPER

Of old newspapers are thrown away or sold for practically nothing, though there are scores of ways in which they may be made useful—practical ways.

Layers of newspapers are better than felt for padding beneath a carpet or linoleum. Several thicknesses of newspaper put evenly over the floor before the covering is laid down will double and triple the life of the latter. With stairs too. A good even pad of newspaper should be tacked firmly over the edge of each stair. This prevents the carpet or linoleum wearing quickly away at the edge. When oilcloth or like material is used for coverings, shelves in the kitchen and such like, it should always be padded with several layers of newspaper. This adds greatly to the wearing power.

Nothing beats old newspaper for cleaning and polishing purposes. Windows and all kinds of glass gain a very bright luster if rubbed up with a good pad of old newspaper. It is equal in efficiency for polishing brass and silver plate. Many people regularly use newspaper in preference to shamoo either for such polishing purposes.

Bottles which require cleaning in filling with water and some strips of newspaper, if well shaken the paper swirls round and detaches the dirt from the side of the bottle.

For all sorts of packing, newspapers are simply invaluable. When clothes are being put away they should always be well wrapped in sheets of newspaper, while sleeves and such like should be stuffed with crumpled sheets so as not to lose their shape. Newspaper is really far better than tissue paper for this, even though it does not look so nice. It has the advantage of acting as a preventive from moths. A good way of storing furs for the summer months is to sprinkle them with carbon and fasten up in an air tight newspaper packet. Paste together two fairly thick newspapers in bag form, put in the furs and then fasten up the ends so that no air or any thing else can get inside.

Cutlery and china which have to be stored should always be wrapped in newspaper. Nothing preserves their color and freshness in a better way. Steel cutlery so stored ought to be greased before being wrapped up, to keep it from rusting.

Newspaper made into a pulp is a most excellent thing for stopping draft holes in floor boards sheathing and walls. The pulp must be pressed tightly into the hole, and when dry the place can be painted or papered if necessary.

For fire purposes old newspapers are very useful outside the ordinary recognized way. Newspapers soaked in a bucket of water and pressed tightly into balls make an excellent backing for a fire which requires to be kept going for any length of time. First rate fire lighters also can be made in this manner. Take a newspaper lengthwise and fold it tightly until there is a thick web measuring about an inch across. Tie each end firmly. Fold each length into three and tie tightly again where the ends cross each other.

Greasy pans of all kinds clean more easily with newspaper than cloths. Grease which resists the efforts of soap and water can frequently be removed by rubbing well with sheets of newspaper.

It often happens that people wish to paint something temporarily—something from which paint cannot be removed if the surface is once covered. In such a case it is a good plan to cover the thing with several thicknesses of newspaper and paint the newspaper covering with the same number of coats of paint as would have been applied to the thing itself. The painted newspaper can be stripped off when you like.

WHAT YOU CAN DO WITH RIBBONS

The girl who would like to have good looking accessories at small cost should buy ribbons with which to make them.

A simple white frock may do duty on a number of occasions if trimmed up with different ribbon accessories. At one time it can have a narrow girdle of black velvet ribbon brought around the waist, with one long and reaching below the knees and finished with a pump bow. A bow is used at the bust line and a small one at the middle of the back.

At another time bring a fold of pink messaline satin around the waist and finish it at the left side with a diagonal bow of five short loops of the ribbon above a knot and three below, with two pointed ends. Make a satin rose of the messaline and green velvet leaves and tuck it in the folds of the fichu.

A third idea is to use a straight belt of pinkish purple velvet ribbon six inches wide, ending in two wedge shaped ends where the front drapery laps. One piece is three inches shorter than the other, which reaches to the knees, and the ends are worked in a wreath of violets in ribbon embroidery. Bunches of violets are scattered on the belt, and two loops of velvet with embroidered ends are tucked in the overlapping part of the fichu.

A quaint Victorian effect can be given by making a belt and peplum of chiffon. Two full ends of chiffon are made into a sash knotted at the bottom and finished in a deep upstanding bow, with one loop up and the other loop and two ends down. The bottom of the peplum, which comes to the hip line, and the edges of the sash and bow are finished with a quilling of changeable taffeta ribbon.

NOTES AND NOVELTIES OF THE SEASON

Present indications are that linens and cotton fabrics will be trimmed with satin or silk buttons. Extended loops from each button will be also set in.

For afternoon functions or for morning weddings, all tones of cream, yellows, putty, beeswax and chalk are fashionable. These dyes are best in satin.

White is sure to continue in fashion through the summer season. Black is still worn to a great extent, heavily touched in white. Navy blue is another popular shade.

Silk should never be iron on the right side, as it will be shiny wherever the iron has touched it.

Olives, celery and cold macaroni on lettuce leaves make a good salad. A few shreds of candied lemon peel

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure
The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Dream of Tartar will give a delicious flavor to bread pudding.

Piano keys may be cleaned by a soft rag dipped in lemon juice and then in silver shining.

Wiping the shelves with oil of cedar is said to be a good way to keep the mold from books.

In house decoration the pieces of brass and copperware should be used to light up dark rooms or halls.

Crackers covered with grated cheese and toasted in the oven are good served with salad for luncheon.

Old brocades and tapestries make beautiful covers for books—temporary covers, and are suited to the annoying telephone book, the dictionary and the like. These bits of interesting stuffs also make fittings for the work table, cushions and needle books, and vie with the beautiful leather equipments.

Instead of cutting the buttons from wornout garments, try tearing off a narrow strip of the cloth to which they are sewed, and thus save time usually spent in hunting up buttons to "match." Have a box or small basket especially for these strips of buttons, so they will always be at hand when needed.

When pretty lingerie blouses begin to wear at neck and sleeves do not throw them aside; simply remove the sleeves, cut down the neck, trim neck and armholes with narrow lace, after binding them, put on a waistband, and you have a corset cover to wear with dainty dresses, at a saving of time and material.

By adding a small bit of sugar to the water in which fresh flowers are placed, the water will keep sweet and fresh.

Soy is the national sauce of Japan, made from the soy bean. It is used in most of the popular dishes of that country.

The "zest" of lemon is the very thinnest possible grating of the yellow rind; if any of the white underneath is added, the whole will become bitter.
